

What Is Whaling Attack?

01

A whaling attack is a targeted attempt to steal sensitive information from an organization for malicious reasons.

02

The target information may include financial details, employee information, client data, business secrets, etc.

03

Such attacks specifically target senior management employees having complete access to sensitive data such as CEO, CFO, etc.

04

The attacks make use of general phishing techniques such as email and website spoofing for tricking the employees.
